What is the Classic Towns Program?
The Classic Towns of Greater Philadelphia initiative is committed to the growth, revitalization, and support of the region’s older communities. At its core, Classic Towns is a marketing program that aims to promote the region’s developed municipalities and neighborhoods as great places to live, work, and play. Classic communities are often at a competitive disadvantage when it comes to attracting new businesses and residents. While Greater Philadelphia as a whole is promoted as a tourist destination and center of commerce, many suburban municipalities and urban neighborhoods lack the resources necessary to launch sophisticated and effective marketing programs that target specific segments of the public. At present, only a very small number of the region’s classic communities have undertaken comprehensive promotional campaigns.

The cornerstone of the Classic Towns program is a regional marketing strategy to benefit the Greater Philadelphia region’s older communities and neighborhoods. The program provides individual municipalities with the tools they need to launch their own campaigns. By identifying needs, developing effective messages, and creating strategies for targeted distribution, the Classic Towns initiative will help communities to brand themselves as attractive places to live, work, shop and play. It will pinpoint sources of public and private support that may be leveraged to sustain regional and municipal marketing efforts into the future.

DVRPC has identified the following guiding principles as the framework to improve and promote older communities and neighborhoods throughout the Greater Philadelphia region.

Identify niche markets
The core cities and older communities of the region are home to a wide range of amenities that are appealing to many homebuyers and business owners. Amenities that could be highlighted as part of the Classic Towns program include access to transit, pedestrian friendliness, housing options, and well-established neighborhoods.
Invest in and build on quality of place
DVRPC is rich with communities that are unique, attractive, exciting, and welcoming to residents and visitors. Building upon these amenities will make individual communities and the region more attractive places to live, work and play.

Create new partnerships
New partnerships should be pursued that will benefit the future of our communities. These new partnerships should bring together residents, businesses, and local governments, and provide the synergy and momentum necessary to bring new ideas to fruition.

Think regionally, act locally
The Greater Philadelphia region is stronger and more competitive when communities work together. It is difficult for any single community to measure the enormous opportunities and amenities that a region can provide. Regional cooperation strengthens local initiatives.

The Classic Towns program works toward
• Determining communities’ marketing and community development needs;
• Promoting social, economic, institutional, and aesthetic amenities;
• Defining the preferred target markets for residential and commercial investment;
• Creating a marketing strategy that promotes positive images of the region’s classic communities and neighborhoods;
• Educating the finance industry, community development professionals and the general public about the amenities and investment opportunities found in these areas; and
• Encouraging municipal participation in county-wide, regional, and state-level initiatives that promote economic development and revitalization in older communities.

What is the purpose of Classic Towns of Greater Philadelphia?
Many communities in the Philadelphia area have realized the benefits of marketing in regional publications, on billboards, or in local business directories. CTGP will complement those ongoing efforts by promoting the inherent benefits of choosing to locate in developed communities with a large regional campaign sustained over long periods. For other communities that have not yet created a graphic identity or promotional material, CTGP will provide tools and training needed to launch such local marketing campaigns. The regional Classic Towns of Greater Philadelphia campaign strives to strengthen existing local and regional marketing campaigns and initiatives and foster the creation of new campaigns and initiatives.
Who is DVRPC?
The Delaware Valley Regional Planning Commission (DVRPC) is the federally-designated Metropolitan Planning Organization (MPO) for the Philadelphia-Camden-Trenton metropolitan area, defined as the City of Philadelphia and the surrounding counties of Bucks, Chester, Delaware, and Montgomery in Pennsylvania; and Burlington, Camden, Gloucester, and Mercer counties in New Jersey. DVRPC was created in 1965 through an agreement between the two states and charged with the “continuing, comprehensive, coordinated transportation and regional planning” of the region.

As the designated MPO its nine-county service area, DVRPC’s mission is to proactively shape a comprehensive vision for the region’s future growth and stability. DVRPC achieves this by providing technical assistance and services; conducting high-priority studies that meet the demands of its local governments; fostering cooperation among various constituencies to forge consensus on regional issues; and continuing public outreach efforts that enhance awareness of regional issues. DVRPC’s land use and transportation plans and policies affect citizens, businesses, and institutions in the Delaware Valley and beyond.

DVRPC is also responsible for allocating federal funds for transportation and transportation-related improvements in the region. The federal Safe, Accountable, Flexible, and Efficient Transportation Equity Act: A Legacy for Users (SAFETEA-LU) directs MPOs to program and prioritize projects on a regional basis. The projects are drawn from DVRPC’s long-range land use and transportation plan, Connections 2035 and include a broad range of activities, including roadway improvements, transit facilities, pedestrian services, goods movement, and parking enhancements.

Classic Towns and Connections 2035
Adopted in July 2009, Connections 2035 provides an integrated transportation and land use vision, and policies for the region’s growth through the year 2035. The key tenets of the Plan are to “support land use goals by transportation decisions” and to “advance economic development through transportation.” The Plan seeks to achieve this vision by supporting projects and improvements within targeted growth areas. To respond to the region’s identified challenges and create vibrant communities, the Plan also focuses on providing greater transportation choices and providing equal opportunities to all populations, providing essential infrastructure, and supporting local and regional economic development initiatives.

The key principles outlined in Connections 2035 lay the foundation for the Classic Towns program. These principles include managing growth and protecting resources, creating livable communities, building an energy-efficient economy and creating a modern, multi-modal transportation system.
Benefits of the Classic Towns Program

- Regional Campaign website. Once communities are designated, Classic Towns design packets/toolkits will be distributed for use. A profile page for the community will be created and highlighted on the classictowns.org website with links and information provided by the community. A contact from each community must be designated to field questions.

- Local Design Toolkit. The Classic Towns Design Toolkit will include the approved brand logos, fonts, colors, and copy for the campaign. The Classic Towns logo should be used on local promotional materials. Appropriate font size should be followed. Brochure templates and a step-by-step guide on announcing that your community is a Classic Town are also included.

- Participation. Communities must commit to participate in the Classic Towns program for two years, with an option to renew participation. Participants will be required to attend at least two skill-based workshops per year. Other voluntary events will include additional workshops, networking events, and stakeholder forums.

- Support. Selection into the Classic Towns program will include DVRPC staff support in press releases, press events, funding opportunities/grant writing, design assistance, etc. Consultants retained by DVRPC to promote Classic Towns will be available to advise participating communities on launching localized marketing campaigns.
