Jerry also serves as a volunteer citizen and Board Chairman of the 8 county SEDA COG Joint Rail Authority, which owns and operates 5 shortline freight railroads. He also was a founding organizer and is currently Chairman of the Board of the 22 county Susquehanna Greenway Partnership. As one of the founding organizers Jerry was elected the first President of the County Planning Directors Association of PA. Jerry served 11 years on the State Solid Waste Advisory Committee. He has conducted workshops and training for the PA Local Government Training Partnership (DCED, PSATS, PSAB, CCAP), PMPEI, and for Penn State University. Other volunteer citizen service includes the PA Wilds Planning Team Partner At Large, Pine Creek Watershed Council Partner At Large, and Public Art Academy Board Chairman for two terms.

Jerry's planning career has been devoted to understanding and pursuit of the public interest through enlightened planning and implementation of plans for community betterment. Education is the key to understanding the public interest, and to inspire the pursuit of excellence.

It is the intention of this award to:

1. Encourage professional planners to pursue professional development for their personal pursuit of excellence, and thereby
2. Enable a strong commitment to community betterment
3. Encourage deliberate Professional Development Plans

As a result, the PA Chapter of APA intends to provide the recipients of the Jerry S. Walls, FAICP Planning Professional Development Award with an educational stipend that can be spent to further their continuing education. Personal professional development plans will be requested with all applications for this award and will be reviewed by a panel of judges.

The award may or may not cover all expenses associated within the professional development plan, but may be used to cover any portion of the recipient's costs. Professional development may or may not include a degree-seeking program. If not already a member of AICP, applicants are encouraged to consider educational pursuits that will assist them in obtaining AICP certification. Professional development that would qualify include graduate or undergraduate planning-related classes (with a preference to those offered by Planning Accreditation Board programs, such as those provided at the University of Penn, Temple University, and Indiana University of Pennsylvania), in-depth training on planning-related topics such as but not limited to charrettes and mediation, planning-related workshops such as those offered through APA's Planners Training Service, or other training relevant to the professional development of professional planner.

Judging will include review of the individual's professional development plan, as well as consideration of career-related experience. Applicants with a sound plan for professional development who can demonstrate that the plan will be pursued will be considered favorably. Individuals currently enrolled in professional development classes or programs will be considered favorably.

Recipients are eligible to receive a second award after accepting the first award, if need can be demonstrated.
